B52s Make Heaviest Raids Of War Across Indochina

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. B52 bombers carried out their heaviest raids of the war over both North and South Vietnam in the 24 hours ending at noon today, the U.S. Command reported.

With supplies and reinforcements still coming into South Vietnam from the North, the big planes flew 150 strikes, dropping more than 3,000 tons of bombs on what the Command described as supply caches, staging areas and troop concentrations.

A little more than one-third of the strikes were concentrated in the southern half of North Vietnam just above the demilitarized zone, and the rest scattered in all four military regions of South Vietnam.

The U.S. Command announced the loss of three American aircraft, one a four-engine Air Force C130 transport that crashed from mechanical failure shortly after takeoff from Soc Trang Air Base, 95 miles southwest of Saigon.

The Command said initial reports indicated six Americans and seven South Vietnamese were killed and five Americans and an undetermined number of Vietnamese were injured in the C130 crash.

A U.S. Army helicopter evacuating refugees crashed in the central highlands during an artillery attack on the Ben Het Base Camp. South Vietnamese sources said two refugees were killed and 10 were injured. The U.S. Command said there were no American casualties.

A U.S. Army light plane crashed into the Da Nang property disposal yard at Marble Mountain Air Base after an engine failure on takeoff, killing one crewman and injuring a second, the Command said. In a delayed report, Navy F4 pilots from the carrier Saratoga said they probably shot down a Soviet-built MIG 21 Thursday night just southwest of Vinh. One pilot said he fired two air-to-air missiles at the MIG and saw two big explosions.

On the ground, a resurgence of Viet Cong main force and guerrilla attacks was reported across South Vietnam.

Earthquake Alert System Predicted Within 13 Years

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — By 1985 scientists will have the capability of measuring stress under the earth's crust so accurately that two to three hours warning can be given before an earthquake, says a Stanford University geologist.

But Dean Richard H. Jahns of Stanford's School of Earth Sciences said Friday in an interview that all research devoted to such systems will be wasted unless accompanied by appropriate responses.

"Scientists in Japan and recently in the U.S. have been working on instrumentation that would record premonitory changes that occur just prior to major failure along an earthquake fault," said Jahns.

"Further research is needed to couple the premonitory changes detected with subsequent fault ruptures. We are not yet ready to begin installing instruments with the certainty they will do the job intended. But it is a reasonable bet we will be able to do so by 1985," he said.

"By getting these initial indications — from a few minutes to a few hours ahead of time — that a failure is about to occur, we could identify potential quakes and perhaps deal with three-quarters of them," he said.

The professor said short term warning capability wouldn't be worth a thing unless there is a planned response, such as a disaster warning setup providing for proper control of certain public activities.

"We have to shift people from relatively unsafe to safe places," said Jahns. "If we knew an earthquake was coming in a half an hour and it was during the commuter period, I would want to stop freeway traffic immediately."

"Suppose an earthquake with the violence of the 1906 San Francisco quake occurred at 5 p.m.," he said. "The violent shaking, ground rupture of soft materials on which some of our major freeways are built would bring their destruction. The carnage would be simply horrible."

Roundtown

A RADIO call from the Franklin County Sheriff's Department that persons were shooting in the northern part of Pickaway County sent Deputy Don Thompson speeding up the Circleville-Groveport Road about 11:30 p.m. Friday.

He found members of the Air National Guard in summer training exercises at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

MAYNARD Burns, Kiwanis Boys and Girls committee chairman, warned parents to caution their children to obey traffic laws when riding their bicycles. Burns, who applied reflecting tape to a number of bikes last week, said that the tape, and lights, are important for night riding.

THE Circleville High School marching band returned from Camp Crescendo, Rio Grande College 1 p.m. today, to be greeted by police, Mayor Frank Barnhill and a host of hand boosters.

Judge Blocks Police Department Integration Plan

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Common Pleas Judge Douglas Ferguson halted Friday a plan by the city to integrate the police command with a series of blacks-only promotions.

Calling the plan "clearly illegal," Ferguson issued a temporary restraining order against the process, which would have started with the promotion of five black patrolmen to sergeant.

The judge said he would hold a hearing sometime in September before deciding whether to make the injunction permanent. The restraining order was sought by the Fraternal Order of Police.

Ohio Traffic Deaths 1,079 In 6 Months

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Preliminary figures show Ohio had 1,079 traffic deaths during the first six months of the year, a reduction of one from the same period in 1971, Highway Safety Director Eugene O'Grady said Friday.

O'Grady noted Ohio has been able to hold the line on fatalities while nationally they are on the increase, but said the toll still needs to be reduced.

Property Tax Dispute Again Before Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court was asked Friday to order the state Board of Tax Appeals to show why it should not be held in contempt for failing to implement a statewide uniform property tax assessment rate.

The motion by Park Investment Co. of Cleveland was the first step in a legal move to put Ohio's 1972 property tax assessment law before the high court.

The Board of Tax Appeals expected and encouraged the contempt proceedings in an effort to clarify its duties after being caught between legislative and Supreme Court directives.

Park Investment, which began legal action more than 10 years ago to eliminate varying assessments of the various classes of property for tax purposes, want the court to rule on the constitutionality of the new tax assessment law.

Acting on a Park Investment suit, the Supreme Court last year ordered immediate uniform property tax assessments. The Board of Tax Appeals then set the uniform rate at 35 per cent of market value.

But the legislature, fearing the immediate switchover would cause chaos in county governments and sharply affect local revenues, enacted legislation which had the effect of spreading the change over a six-year period.

The measure permitted counties to wait until their next regularly scheduled reappraisal year before switching to a new uniform assessment rate.

It put off until 1977 the end of the transitory period since counties now are required to reassess only every six years.

The legislature not only delayed the implementation date but also said assessments should be based on current use of the property. The supreme court had said they should be based on current market value.

To invite court action by Park Investment, the Board of Tax appeals this week accepted an abstract from Scioto County listing some parcels based on current use value and some on current market value.

Espionage Sentence Appeal Set

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — M. Sgt. Walter T. Perkins will appeal his espionage conviction, despite a relatively light sentence, "because of the importance of the issues involved," his attorney says.

Perkins, 37, received a three-year prison term, a reduction in grade to basic airman and a dishonorable discharge Friday after Military Judge Col. Joe Peck convicted him of trying to pass secret documents to Soviet agents.

Lawyer Henry Rothblatt of New York City said he still felt his client was innocent because of alcoholism, and he planned to appeal the conviction to the Air Force Court of Military Review.

"This case was prepared to go all the way," said Rothblatt.

Earlier in the week, Rothblatt said he was "pioneering a new defense" and felt acute alcoholism should become an accepted form of temporary insanity plea as the more traditional ones.

Peck rejected a defense contention that 20 years of heavy drinking had rendered Perkins legally insane and no responsible for his acts.

The attorney said, however, he was "absolutely delighted" with the sentence, calling it "a slap on the wrist" compared to the maximum 26 years of imprisonment Perkins could have received.

Equality Plan By Jackson Causes Snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders are steaming toward a showdown vote on the U.S.-Soviet offensive-weapons pact, pressing for a weekend agreement on when the vote should be taken.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield called off a session scheduled today after procedural arguments led to a deadlock on when to put the question to a vote.

At issue is Sen. Henry M. Jackson's amendment to urge the United States to seek equality in any future arms accord with the Russians.

Jackson, D-Wash., picked up support from conservative senators as debate opened Friday and he pressed for an up-or-down vote on the merits of the amendment.

But Sen. J. W. Fulbright took steps to block that kind of vote when he served notice he will offer a motion to table and thus kill the Jackson amendment without further debate or alterations in wording.

The Foreign Relations Committee, which Fulbright heads, opposes the amendment on grounds it would imply that the United States accepted a bad deal in the agreement.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said he was unwilling to agree to a debate limitation because he would want to offer revisions to the Jackson language should the tabling motion fail.

Mansfield offered the Senate a "choice" with an amendment of his own endorsing the language of a joint declaration signed in Moscow May 29 by President Nixon and Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev pledging both countries to "exercise restraint" and "avoid military confrontations" in their mutual relations. The declaration was signed three days after the two leaders produced the arms accord.

Jackson says the White House endorses his amendment to the resolution approving the five-year agreement limiting offensive nuclear weapons of both nations while arms negotiations continue.

Speaking to the Senate Friday, Jackson said that in the interim agreement the United States has accepted a "subparity" position for five years.

"I don't want it to become a permanent arrangement in SALT II," Jackson said, and, he added, neither does the Nixon administration.

Mayor Perk Told Vacation Needed

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Ralph J. Perk says his doctor told him to take some time off or he "would not be mayor very long."

Perk, who has been trying to get over a cold and underwent treatment at Cleveland Clinic for it this week, said it would take at least two weeks off and would leave the city.

"If I stayed here," he said, "the problems would just keep coming to me." He didn't say where he would go.

Tax Repeal Supporters File Suit To Legalize Petitions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Anticipating legal action by opponents, the group seeking a statewide vote on repeal of the state income tax asked the Supreme Court Friday to invalidate a section of the Ohio code dealing with petition circulation.

Columbus attorney Bruce Cameron said the group wanted to protect itself "from a rash of trivial lawsuits around the state."

The code chapter in question was used by Secretary of State Ted Brown in preparing instructions for the 88 county boards of election on how to handle petitions filed this week seeking a November vote on repeal of the tax.

Cameron, who said he acted in behalf of Rep. Joseph Tulley, R-37 Mentor, one of 16 Republican legislators identified with the repeal group, contends the code chapter is unconstitutional in that it deprives citizens of their full rights to petition their government.

Find Man Armed After Appearing In Assault Case

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sheriff's deputies were about to put David Mixon of Cleveland into a cell to begin serving time when they discovered he was carrying a loaded revolver.

Told Mixon had the gun with him during his courtroom hearing, Common Pleas Judge Bernard Friedman remarked, "Scary, isn't it."

One doesn't expect anything like that in a misdemeanor case—Mixon was found guilty of assaulting his wife, the judge said.

Friedman added there were no provisions made for searches before defendants free on bond were brought into the court, but he also added: "Maybe there should be."

"Restrictive" language in the code, he said, includes a provision for circulators of petitions to certify he have witnessed the signing of each petition.

Opponents of repeal have said they are aware of violations that occurred in connection with the petition drive and have threatened legal action.

Cameron also asked the court for writs to prevent Brown and the county boards from deleting any signatures from the petitions. He said Brown invalidated about 8,600 signatures during a spot check of the petitions.

Petitions submitted by the group contained some 367,000 signatures. Some 318,414 valid signatures are needed to put the proposal on the ballot.

The proposal calls for a constitutional amendment that would repeal the income tax of .5 to 3.5 per cent on individuals and 4 to 8 per cent on corporations as of next Jan. 1.

The Ohio Supreme Court is in summer recess and probably will not return until late September except under extraordinary circumstances. Cameron said he was aware "the matter would require special hearings."

Taxi Driver Shot To Death As Wife-Dispatcher Waits

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Taxi dispatcher Debbie Emery sat by her microphone Friday night and listened as her driver-husband was sent to meet a fare, unaware he was being sent to pick up his killer, police said.

Officers said Marvin Emery, 32, was found slumped over the wheel of his cab in the middle of an intersection, the transmission in neutral and his foot jamming the accelerator to the floor.

F. M. Williams, night cashier at Safety Cab Co., said one of Mrs. Emery's companion dispatchers took a call at about 9 p.m. and was asked that a cab be sent to a restaurant in a southwest suburban business section.

The call was relayed to her husband in Cab 19.

Mrs. Emery, about 25, learned that her husband had been shot when another cab passed the shooting scene and radioed that the driver in Cab 19 had been hurt. Williams said. Horror stricken, she rushed to the hospital.

Another dispatcher at the cab office reported originally that Mrs. Emery had personally taken the call for a cab that sent her husband to his death.

Williams said the couple met at the cab company several years ago when Emery joined the firm as a driver. Mrs. Emery, an attractive brunette, has worked for the company as a dispatcher and telephone operator for nearly 10 years, he said.

After being married two years ago, Williams said, "they arranged their schedule to be on at the same time. He drove and she worked the board."

They were the parents of a one-year-old son, he said.

CAM RANH BAY, Vietnam (AP) — The love letter, tumbling across the sands, was scrawled in girlish handwriting.

A few paragraphs of erotic description concluded: "Destroy this letter when you've read it, please." The boy friend instead had stuffed it into a garbage can, and the monsoon's breezes, the first in seven months, had scattered it.

Hanging on a line were a pair of shrunken socks. A sign nailed to the door of a massage parlor read "Open Now." Traffic lights at the main intersection bore the sign: "Times Square."

And marching off across the sand dunes, their aluminum roofs glinting in the sunshine, were the sprawling Army, Navy and Air Force installations of what some American officers once hoped would be a permanent U.S. presence in Vietnam, a Guantanamo in Asia.

No jeeps waited for the lights to change at Times Square. The vast supply warehouses and hangars were empty. The nearly 40,000 Americans who carved Cam Ranh base out of a desert wilderness, and manned it for six years, have gone home.

Yet the still, burning days seem to have suspended Cam Ranh base in time, like the old ghost towns in Nevada and Arizona.

The illusion of occupancy is strong, but a changing war and changing American policies combined to consign the $250-million base to the garbage pile.

A few Vietnamese troops have moved in. But the vast air bases and warehouses, handed over officially to the Saigon government June 1, are not likely to be used again. The base was an American dream, not a Vietnamese one.

Army authorities say many of the warehouses and camps had a life expectancy of only six to eight years, and most are expected to be dilapidated in a year or so.

The Vietnamese intend to establish some kind of logistics command here, and the wharves will be kept open. The vast installations, however,

Hanging on a line were a pair of shrunken socks. A sign nailed to the door of a massage parlor read "Open Now." Traffic lights at the main intersection bore the sign: "Times Square."

And marching off across the sand dunes, their aluminum roofs glinting in the sunshine, were the sprawling Army, Navy and Air Force installations of what some American officers once hoped would be a permanent U.S. presence in Vietnam, a Guantanamo in Asia.

No jeeps waited for the lights to change at Times Square. The vast supply warehouses and hangars were empty. The nearly 40,000 Americans who carved Cam Ranh base out of a desert wilderness, and manned it for six years, have gone home.

Yet the still, burning days seem to have suspended Cam Ranh base in time, like the old ghost towns in Nevada and Arizona.

The illusion of occupancy is strong, but a changing war and changing American policies combined to consign the $250-million base to the garbage pile.

A few Vietnamese troops have moved in. But the vast air bases and warehouses, handed over officially to the Saigon government June 1, are not likely to be used again. The base was an American dream, not a Vietnamese one.

Army authorities say many of the warehouses and camps had a life expectancy of only six to eight years, and most are expected to be dilapidated in a year or so.

The Vietnamese intend to establish some kind of logistics command here, and the wharves will be kept open. The vast installations, however, (Continued on Page 10)

Rogers Denies Peace 'Lost'

Shriver Comment Hit By Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers says he can find no evidence that Democratic vice presidential nominee Sargent Shriver ever told President Nixon he was wasting a historic chance for a Vietnam peace.

"If there was such a historic opportunity, let me say Mr. Shriver was miraculously quiet about it," Rogers said Friday.

At a news conference prior to his departure for Miami to testify before the Republican National Convention's Platform Committee, Rogers responded to Shriver's earlier assertions that Nixon "blew" a peace-making opportunity.

Told of Rogers' remarks, a spokesman for Shriver said the candidate would have no further comment. "Mr. Shriver stands by his earlier statement. His position has not changed," the spokesman said.

Rogers also criticized Ramsey Clark, a former attorney general in the Johnson administration. Radio Hanoi quoted Clark, who is visiting North Vietnam, as calling for an end to U.S. bombing.

Rogers, an attorney general himself during the Eisenhower administration, said of Clark, "To hear him on Radio Hanoi was contemptible, particularly at a time when American men are flying over there and losing their lives."

Shriver told newsmen Thursday that he quit as U.S. ambassador to France in 1970 after Nixon "blew" a historic opportunity to stop the Vietnam war.

Shriver went to Paris in 1968 during the Johnson administration. The full-fledged peace talks got under way there in January 1969 as President Nixon came into office. Nixon asked Shriver to stay on.

As ambassador to France, Shriver was not in charge of the U.S. negotiating team in Paris.

Tests Reveal Heat, Humidity Limits For Drying Beans

By GEORGE HARMICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Farmers, especially soybean seed producers, are aware of the losses resulting from delayed harvests and field aging which occur while they are waiting for the moisture content of the beans to drop to safe storage levels, usually 13 per cent or less.

Many have tried harvesting beans early and drying them in dryers installed for corn. But even though recommended drying procedures were followed, results were far from satisfactory.

Germination dropped and too many beans were cracked, according to R. J. Walker, Extension Agricultural Engineer at The Ohio State University. In tests conducted last fall, Walker found that both the temperature and the humidity level of the drying air were causing the problems.

An experimental dryer was used where air temperature, relative humidity and airflow were controlled. Two varieties popular in Ohio, Harosoy 63 and Chippewa 64, were used.

THE temperature of air used in drying affected both germination and crackage. In raising the temperature from 130 to 150 degrees F., the average germination of Chippewa 64 beans dropped from 88 to 50 per cent and that of Harosoy 63 from 81 to 26 per cent. Harosoy variety crackage was much greater, especially at 130 degrees F. and 150 degrees F.

When relative humidity levels of the drying air were too low, considerable crackage occurred but germination was not affected. At relative humidities of 40 per cent or above crackage varied from 0 to 2 per cent over all temperature ranges tested. But when the relative humidity was dropped to 20 per cent, crackage varied from 1.5 to 7.5 per cent with the average being 2.7 per cent over all the temperatures tested.

Walker says that test results concluded that the Harosoy 63 variety is much more susceptible to drying damage than the Chippewa 64 variety. He adds that no explanation can be given for this presently.

The results of these tests indicate that both varieties can be dried with air temperatures up to 130 degrees F. and still have an average germination of 80 per cent or above. Before this conclusion can be drawn for deep bed drying applications, however, further tests need to be conducted.

To prevent cracking of the beans, Walker suggests that the relative humidity of the drying air be 40 per cent or above. He indicated that, according to test results, initial moisture content has no effect on the germination or crackage in drying soybeans.

It was also found that varying the airflow velocity did not affect the germination or cracking. Thus a constant air volume of 100 cfm per square foot was used in all tests.

Yellowing Pin Oaks Caused By Iron Deficiency

By GEORGE HARMICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

If that special pin oak you planted to shade your patio is yellowing, it may be an iron deficiency.

Iron is necessary for the formation of chlorophyll, which is responsible for the green color in plants and is the source of plant food and energy, says Elton Smith, Extension Landscape Horticulturist at The Ohio State University. When the amount of iron available is not enough for normal growth, leaves turn pale green, yellow or white and eventually brown, particularly between the veins.

Iron chlorosis occurs most often in pin oak, white oak, red maple, roses, azalea, rhododendron and sweet gum he explains. And it may result from one of a combination of causes. The condition is often due to high pH which makes it possible for other elements to interfere with the absorption of iron, rather than to a lack of iron in the soil. This occurs in alkaline soils with a pH of 7.0 or above.

Chlorosis may be caused by actual deficiency of iron, or by application of excessive amounts of lime or phosphate to certain soils. It may be caused by over watering, poor drainage or high levels of certain mineral elements in the soil such as manganese, copper or zinc.

The pH, particularly in central and western Ohio, is often above 7.0. This pH must be lowered to control the deficiency of iron in the tree. Annual applications of ammonium sulfate, aluminum sulfate or sulfur should give permanent control. Ammonium sulfate is used at the rate of 10 pounds per 100 square feet and sulfur at 25 pounds per tree.

The best way to be sure of your soil needs is to take a soil sample and send it to the Ohio State University Soil Testing Laboratory. Once you have lowered the soil pH, applications of iron may not be needed. If iron is needed, there are two principal types of iron containing materials. These are iron chelates which are organic in nature and inorganic compounds in soluble form such as ferrous sulfate. Iron chelates are marketed under various trade names.

The iron in chelate remains available to plants when the chelates are placed in the soil. Follow recommendations for amount to use.

Use one gallon of ferrous sulfate solution (1 pound of ferrous sulfate per gallon of water) for each foot of the diameter of the periphery — the area covered by the brown of the tree (to the ends of the branches). Solution can be applied over the surface of the soil, however, it is more effective if holes are drilled and the solution poured in them.

What do you think of as a "fabricated" food? Some of our very first fabricated, synthetic or substitute food products were breakfast cereals and peanut butter.

One of the big problems with the world's food supply is that of finding adequate kinds and amounts of high quality protein. In addition, concern over saturated fat and other dietary concerns have contributed to the search for new sources of food for human consumption. Substitute and synthetic foods are not limited to proteins, but also include sweeteners, citrus and dairy products.

In 1960, sugar began to feel the effects of competition from non-caloric sweeteners as mixtures of saccharin and cyclamates began to be used extensively in this country.

Currently, starch sugars such as corn syrup and dextrose appear to be the most important sugar substitute in the U.S. It is not expected that a non-caloric sweetener can easily be found to replace the void left by the ban on the use of cyclamates.

Currently, citrus substitutes make up 21 per cent of the annual retail citrus beverage market. Synthetic orange drinks which contain no citrus are available in both the powdered and frozen form.

Powdered citrus drinks are very versatile and are quite popular with campers partly because of their convenience.

Probably the most well known substitution in this category is margarine made from vegetable oil and used in place of butter.

Whipped toppings and coffee whiteners compete with cream for a share of the market. Recent estimates indicate that non-dairy coffee whiteners have about 35 per cent of the market for light cream. Substitute toppings have more than half of the market for whipped toppings.

Vegetable proteins appear likely to be the main meat substitute source for the next ten years although other sources are being investigated. Soybeans will probably be the most important plant protein and will likely be supplemented by sunflower, safflower, peanuts and cottonseed.

By 1980, it is expected that vegetable type proteins will probably displace 15-20 per cent of the meat in meat-type food preparations in both the institutional and retail market.

The sod webworm is one of the more destructive pests of bluegrass lawns. Damage to grass results during the period the larvae or worm are feeding. Since the pest has two generations per year, we have to treat twice to protect lawns. The first treatment is in early June when the first generation of worms is feeding, and the second treatment is now — early August — when the second generation is feeding. This second generation may cause the most damage if left uncontrolled.

Since control measures are directed at the larvae, the best time to treat is when the majority of the eggs have hatched and small larvae are present but before excessive damage occurs. Most people want to do something when they see many moths flying at night or when they kick them up in the daytime. When you see the moths, this means the larvae have completed their development. The time to treat is about two weeks after a sharp decline in the number of moths is seen. This is when the newly hatched larvae are feeding in the grass.

Several products are available such as Sevin, Diazinon, Dylux, Zectran, Baygon, Dursban Ethion and Akton. Any one of these chemicals is recommended as a control. The amount to use of each varies, so ask for bulletin L-187, Control of Turfgrass Pests, at the County Extension Office. This leaflet gives amount to use per 1,000 square feet of lawn area.

If helminthosporium leaf spot is a problem in your lawn, continue treatments at 7-14 day intervals through August. Thinning out of grass in scattered areas is one sign. A general, brownish undercast caused by dead grass leaves accompanies the general thinning out. You can also see spots on the leaves which are usually brown or purple or brown with a purple border.

Several fungicides are recommended along with the amounts to apply in bulletin L-187, Control of Turfgrass Pests.

During the hot weather of August is a good time to seal your driveway with an asphalt or tar protectant.

Cracks in the driveway permit water to get under the pavement and into the soil that supports the driveway. When the soil cannot support the load, asphalt starts to fail.

There are many driveway sealers available and most of them will do satisfactory job if the manufacturer's instructions are followed. Most all sealers are applied cold and are asphalt or tar emulsion. Sealers made with tar are more resistant to gas and lubricant drippings.

Apply sealer when the humidity is low, the sky is clear, weather is warm and there is no chance of rain for a day or two.

Some form of the abacus, an instrument used for mathematical calculations, was used in all the civilizations of antiquity.

Monroe Mixers and Menders

By Sheri Rivers

The Monroe Mixers and Menders met at Monroe School, July 3.

Dana Marshall and Sheri Rivers gave a demonstration showing different things to use for measuring. The sewing girls worked on the invisible stitch. Cooking girls discussed and worked on project for the fair.

Our fair booth was discussed with "Monroe Mixers and Menders Under the Dome," as our them. We also talked about demonstrations for the fair. Refreshments were served by Teresa Beauman.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'One Big House' - One Big Problem

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for two years and have a new baby in the house. We get along fine, but suddenly we have a problem. My husband makes very good money and says he will buy us a home on one condition—that his mother (a widow) and his unmarried sister, 33, live with us.

Both his mother and sister are working and are well able to support themselves and they share a house right now, which they plan to sell so they can live with us.

Abby, I have always gotten along with my mother in law and my sister in law, too, but I don't want to live in one house with them.

I've tried to explain this to my husband, but he doesn't want to understand. He keeps pointing out the advantages

(his mother can baby-sit for us) but I still don't like the idea.

He says before he knew how strongly I felt about this he had talked to a lot to his mother and sister about the one big house idea, and now if he tells them he's changed his mind, it will cause big trouble. I know if I give in, I'll be sorry.

What do you suggest?

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: DON'T give in. Tell your husband that you don't mind being the "heavy" and that he can tell his mother and sister that you feel the "one big house" idea won't work out. If it causes trouble, it will be acute and temporary, which is preferable to the endless, chronic problems living together will create.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 5-year-old daughter. My husband has many friends who visit him very often. Don't get me wrong about this, Abby, they are real nice guys for the most part, but their language is something else! I admit, I swear a little myself, but these men do worse than swear, their talk is downright filthy, and they also tell some pretty lusty stories.

I told my husband I didn't think his friends should talk like that in front of our little girl and he said, "Oh, she'll learn it soon enough anyway." She may, but she's at an age now where she repeats everything she hears, and I don't want her own home to be a bad influence on her. What advice do you have for me?

A GOOD MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If your husband's friends are "nice guys," they should respect a simple request to watch their language in the presence of a 5-year-old. So YOU make that request. And if they aren't as nice as you think they are, keep the child out of hearing range when the men come over.

DEAR ABBY: I am a member of a bridge club and each week we meet at the home of one of the members.

On several occasions I have noticed one woman "peeking" under the china to see what make it was. She examines the silverware very carefully, too. I consider this very nosy.

I am having the meeting next week and I shall have to have this woman in my home. I certainly don't want to buy new china just to make a good impression. So how do I keep this woman from snooping?

NEVER LOOKS

DEAR NEVER: You probably won't be able to. But tell her what your silver and china patterns are before she has a chance to look; that'll settle her hash!

3 Persons Indicted In False Claim Case

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Three persons, including the president of a suburban West-lake builders supply company, have been indicted by the Cuyahoga County grand jury on charges of filing a false $14,000 claim with the Ohio Highway Department.

The indictment handed down Thursday charges Roger Powell, president of his own company, with signing a false claim for moving expenses for relocation of his business caused by construction of Interstate 90. The business was moved to another location within the small suburb.

Ohio School Districts Eye Handicapped Children Plan

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's 631 school districts have only a year to prepare for a $250 million state educational program for handicapped children and Ohio School Supt. Martin Essex said it should be done "with a minimum of fuss and feathers."

Essex, addressing several hundred superintendents at their Mid-Summer Superintendent's Conference at Kings Island amusement park, admitted that "the legislature has assigned a formidable task."

"It was another of those short fuses that reflect the impatient demands of our time," said Essex, "similar to the vocational mandate of the prior session."

He said the districts must submit separate plan to the State Board of Education by Dec. 1. The state board must submit an interim report to the chairmen of the House and Senate Education Committees by Feb. 1, 1973, and a finalized plan by July 1, 1973.

Essex said he had some recommendations for local administrators in preparing their plans.

He said children with intelligence quotients lower than 50 were to be excluded. It must be decided whether the children should be integrated with normal students or segregated and whether they should be categorized.

"It will be necessary to adjust differences that will exist in attaining a feasible geographic balance," he noted.

Other concerns noted by Essex included: transportation, the ratio of state and local funding, teacher certification, curriculum and the relationship of parent organizations.

He urged the administrator to "take a long view for a sound plan. View the future realistically."

"The objective is clear. The legislative action is a response to the more humane concerns of our society, and the commitment to enable handicapped persons to live a full life, including the independence and respectability that comes with employment."

Skunks Provide Air Pollution

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The Bob Harlan says they're skunked, literally, in efforts to rid their neighborhood of "air pollution" created by the pesky black and white creatures.

"I'm not speaking of one little skunk," Harlan said in a written petition to the city Thursday. "I have a neighbor who has seven to nine of them living under her shed and she has the audacity to feed and water them until she has so many they get into a fight to see who is going to be first in the hole under the shed."

And, he lamented, "when skunks argue, they get downright nasty about it and everybody within five city blocks in all directions knows about it."

Deficits And Taxes

It was an interesting bit of testimony from three of the nation's better known liberal economists. Paul Samuelson, John Galbraith and Walter Heller told the Joint Congressional Economic Committee to disregard presidential warnings about spending.

Heavier deficit spending was advocated by the three, even in the face of deficits which already have set new records for peacetime budgets. The President has asked Congress to limit total spending for the current fiscal year to $250 billion, which includes a deficit projected at $27 billion.

Hateful Colonels

By JEFFERY HART

Ever since their coup d'etat in 1967, it has been an article of the liberal faith that the Greek colonels are fascist beasts, characters out of the Movie "Z", fit objects of detestation for all-right-thinking men. George McGovern's recent statement that if he is elected he will promptly cancel all aid to the Papadopoulos regime accurately reflected this attitude. And yet the reasons for the animus remain somewhat mysterious.

David Holden, chief foreign correspondent for the London Sunday Times, has just published a book on Greece called "Greece Without Columns" which will be released here shortly by Lipincott. Holden is a liberal and he is certainly no great fan of the colonels, but he has spent a lot of time in Greece and his book is a useful corrective to the prevailing attitude. He points out that the colonels' coup was actually bloodless — at least in part because the incumbent political establishment had so thoroughly discredited itself. The colonels did not destroy parliamentary democracy in Athens. Rather, the thing had lost all its credibility. Furthermore, the colonels' regime is anything but unique in character.

"Their authoritarian style," writes Holden, "was more typical than the preceding parliamentary system had been of the prevailing trend in other countries with similar historical, economic and social weaknesses." If Sen. McGovern is to cut off aid to every authoritarian regime, his list will be a long one.

Like all such regimes, the colonels have political prisoners, but even here their record looks better than many: "Most of the 7,000 people originally arrested were released within the first year . . . Within three years, the number of prisoners held on political charges of one kind or another was down to about 1,000 — roughly the same as at the end of the Karamanlis regime." Much has been heard about the regime's use of torture, but

That, the three economists indicated, is not large enough, although they neglected to mention a figure. They were not worried about a renewed outbreak of inflation, arguing that a tighter wage-price control policy could take care of that.

They did acknowledge that a tax increase would be needed by 1974 to cool off a surging economy. It is a classical formula: heavy deficit spending followed by tax increases. The trouble is it is an endless cycle, which explains why inflation became a major problem and the tax structure has become so burdensome.

Holden has sifted the evidence, and he concludes that though the police have sometimes behaved brutally, such behavior is far from noted in Greece, whatever the regime in power. What emerges from Holden's account is an authoritarian regime rather better than most others of the same kind and holding power because the available alternatives were and are politically bankrupt. The opposition in exile, for example has still not coalesced around a leader or a credible program.

There are other points worth noting. Greek citizens can enter the country and leave it at will, and thousands of Greek workers go freely to jobs in other European countries — a feature unheard of in genuinely totalitarian countries.

What would be the effect of a McGovern-like ostracism of the colonels? It certainly would not topple them, Holden says. Rather, with Nasser-like agility, they would move closer to the Soviets — and very likely would close our remaining naval facilities in the eastern Mediterranean.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If we can put men on the moon, why can't we:
Get to work on time?
Keep weeds out of the garden without having to stoop over?
Avoid having that one for the road?
Catch a taxicab on a rainy day?
Build a better mouse trap without having the world make a beaten path to our door?
Grow hair on a bald head?
Put buttons on a shirt so firmly they'll never come off?
Make a zipper that won't stick — or slide when it shouldn't?

Understand our teenagers?
Keep mice out of fuse boxes?
Keep squirrels from nesting in the chimney?
Have a wife built like our neighbor's — the one that looks so well in a bikini?
Have a son who is driven by a goal greater than wrapping the family car round telephone poles?
Draw successfully to fill an inside straight in a poker game?
Put unerringly more than four feet?
Save at least a little money?
Acquire an allergy to laziness?
Develop the kind of impressive personality that makes a racehorse run harder when we bet on him?
Play tennis after 40 without feeling everyone else on the courts is watching us and laughing?
Return Manhattan Island to the Indians and get our money back?

Quit pretending we're a floor lamp at cocktail parties?
Quit being the last guy to laugh at the punchline when the boss tells a pointless joke?
Win the New York State million-dollar lottery?
Cancel cancer?
Conceive a more hopeful tomorrow?
Pave a road to somewhere else than hell with our good intentions?
Make good housewives satisfied with being "just a housewife"?
Grow our watermelons somewhere else than on our waists?
Stay out of wars big or little? Maybe if we had solved some of these problems first, we'd get more pleasure out of having landed on the moon. But why go to the moon if we can't escape our woes here?

Laff-A-Day

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES:
You want to unite forces with another person and because of unusual circumstances you will not be able to do so. This situation could be just that not needs to make you and someone of whom you are very fond closer and with mutual benefits.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)
You want to improve partnership affairs during your spare time today, so arrange a meeting with associates and do just that. Appreciate bluntness. Find right way to add to your popularity.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)
Ideal day to do something nice for one who has done favors for you in the past. Follow through with ideas for making your appearance more charming. Avoid a troublemaker.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)
Accepting an unexpected invitation now could lead to something very interesting. A sudden inspiration will also bring you closer to the one you love. Pay bills early in the day.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)
Ideal day to make conditions at home more harmonious and happy. Do some entertaining in the evening and graciously ask your friends to bring their friends. Be poised.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)
Go to that new site with person who can help you to renew your philosophy of life of the past that proved so satisfying until you changed it. Later show more cooperation with all.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)
You have fine ideas on how to add to present abundance, so put them in operation quickly. Practical problems can be solved quickly now. Your newspaper can be very helpful to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
You are now able to add to your life that which has been missing and derive greater happiness in the future. Dress fashionably and meet the right people when you go out socially.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
Quietly reflecting on your special goals now helps you to reach them in the near future. Your intuition is good now, so follow it. You can find the data you need at the right source.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
Being active in the company of good friends could lead to greater advancement for you in the near future. You can now make up for lost time where your social life is concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Be careful today you do nothing to jeopardize your fine reputation, but enhance it instead. You are anxious to add to present prestige and can do so easily.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Ideal day to start a new beginning in personal life and to make the new contacts that can lead to fine friendships. You can plan that trip you feel is necessary. Count the cost well.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)
Some time spent in meditation will help you get ideas now that can make the future much brighter for you. Control your temper and show the charming side of your nature.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those interesting young people who wants life to flow smoothly, but harsh reality may intervene. Teach early that these are challenges that can be overcome, thereby making your progeny a more capable person than most. Give as fine an education as you can afford. Sports are fine here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU.

MONDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES:
You now have a fine chance to get people of good judgment or high office to become a part of your life. However, this is simply a possible opportunity, and you must take the lead and do something if the big benefits are to result for you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)
Sitting down with an associate and working out better arrangements for the future is wise in a.m. Get into the activities that will make you more popular. Avoid one who depresses you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)
A day to get much work done, so be very cooperative with others and pile up benefits. First schedule your time and make concrete plans so you can push right through. Be wise and take it easy tonight, though.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)
You deserve some light amusement now after all that hard work you have been doing, so get together with fun people and go gorging. Relationship with a attachment is particularly favored, so make the most of this, too. Dress well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)
Concentrate energies on home and family now and do much to improve conditions and harmony in that important part of life. Consult a good decorator so your home has the charm you desire.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)
Now you know what you want to accomplish in the business world, so get busy and make the right contacts to gain such ends. Put those special talents to work and make real money from them. Stop being so passive.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)
Find a better method for handling all your assets and liabilities so you become more successful. Get advice from an expert in business if you have any possible doubts. A happy evening with mate depends on your courtesy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)
You are particularly charitable and charming today and should contact those people who can help you and whom you can help. Social matters can prove most profitable and pleasant. Get to bed at a reasonable hour, though.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)
If you find some new method, you can get your life operating on a much more efficient and profitable basis now. Don't neglect the romantic side of life, which can be very inspiring at this time. Avoid one who is a nuisance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)
Plan how to please good pals and add to prestige you now enjoy, get more savor out of life. Know what it is you really want in your personal life. Then make good plans to attain it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Ideal day to confer with bigwig about your activities and gain the support and approval you need before you go ahead with them. You can get back into that civic affair you started and finish it satisfactorily. You have the courage of your convictions now.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Begin the week properly by planning the trip you have long wanted to take with the aid of an associate. Secure that data you have been procrastinating about getting. A kinder attitude toward mate is important in p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)
You can be very efficient at handling obligations today and make a fine impression on higherups as well as derive much pleasure from such. Try to please mate in some way. Show a greater willingness to go along with his or her ideas.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH... by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The control and the eventual cure of childhood leukemia, an ultimate dream of medicine, seem to be on the horizon. Physicians at St. Jude Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., have aggressively pursued and pioneered in the treatment of leukemia in children.

All previously established methods have relief on a variety of chemicals to inhibit and control the progress of this catastrophic disease. Because of the research at St. Jude Hospital, children with this form of blood cancer are now being treated with massive doses of cobalt X-rays.

The results are so impressive that doctors in other institutions in America are duplicating the St. Jude studies in order to substantiate this exciting work. Dr. Donald T. Pinkel, medical director of St. Jude says, "At this point we have sufficient evidence to indicate that acute lymphocytic leukemia can be cured." Lymphocytic leukemia represents about 80 per cent of all cases of leukemia in children.

My readers will be delighted to know the name of the man who conceived the creation of St. Jude Hospital. It originated as a visionary dream of a man totally separated from medicine and science. Without research portfolio, and in the face of limitless obstacles, he created the foundation and the superstructure that are St. Jude.

That man is Danny Thomas. When last I spoke to Mr. Thomas I was overwhelmingly impressed with his encyclopedic knowledge of ongoing programs of research in leukemia.

Intensive-care units for heart patients, when originally conceived, were at first casually accepted. Now the ICU of every major hospital holds the greatest concentration of sophisticated personnel and equipment.

Today a new form of intensive care unit is being established to decrease the complications of obstetrical care, and to increase the survival rates of newborn infants.

Dr. Edward J. Quilligan, professor of obstetrics at the University of Southern California School of Medicine in Los Angeles, is applying to the obstetrical ICU's all the knowledge that will bring greater safety and more efficient care to high-risk patients.

Mothers and infants will be monitored with the same concentration as are heart patients in the original ICU's.

Sales of tax-exempt bond funds, whose portfolios are made up of the debt securities issued by towns, public authorities, school districts and the like, grew in the same period by close to $500 million to a total of $1.75 billion.

The interest earned on such bonds is tax free, which means that a bond advertised as yielding 6 per cent provides as much income to a couple with taxable income of $25,000 as other securities yielding 9.38 per cent.

Since such funds are far more conservative than many mutual funds, whose portfolios are made up mainly of corporate stocks and which sometimes fluctuate widely, their growth suggest that investors may be turning more conservative.

If that is so, it seems that some of them were propelled along that course by the excesses and failure of mutual funds, many of which claimed to offer but failed to deliver price stability and safety.

Tax exempts offer both. In fact, says Frank P. Wendt, president of John Nuveen & Co., which claims to have founded the first such fund 10 years ago, a tax-exempt fund can almost guarantee stability and safety—and profit.

True, says Wendt, bonds do involve risk. They fluctuate in price as they become more or less sought after. But, whereas a stock price might fluctuate 10 per cent in half a day, it might take half a year for similar change in bond.

"People are becoming more sophisticated," Wendt says. He feels they are becoming more aware of the tax tables and that they are becoming disenchanted with sudden price changes in other professionally managed portfolios.

There's no question that the tax apo provide the tax exempts with their most desirable feature, and no seller of either individual bonds or of bond funds is without a handy table that gives the equivalent yield an investor would have to earn from taxable securities. And as you rise on the income scale those equivalents become rather extraordinary.

A couple filing a joint return with $10,000 taxable income can earn the equivalent of 7.69 per cent on a tax-exempt bond that yields 6 per cent.

And a wealthy couple reporting taxable income of just a little under $100,000 would earn a hefty 15 per cent because of their 60 per cent tax bracket. Understandably, the proper tax break, and from time to time it is suggested that the prop be eliminated. But that eventually seems unlikely.

Most people involved with tax exempts believe it would take an act of Congress to remove the exemption, and even the suggestion of such a bill could set off a fiery inter-governmental conflict.

Municipalities and others rely on the exemption to help them attract funds for essential projects. As it is, many of these governmental units feel strained for funds, and they are not only interested in keeping what advantages they have but are seeking more.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

In your report on the August meeting of the Circleville Board of Education the statement was made that the board reapproved the dress code "formulated by students, parents and school faculty last spring and accepted for the remainder of that year."

This statement implies the students and parents had an opportunity to approve or disapprove the set of dress regulations published in my letter to you on July 15, 1972. This of course is not true. As I recall the students and parents only had the opportunity to fill out a questionnaire regarding school dress. The results of the questionnaires were never made public and we parents did not have an opportunity to formulate or approve anything.

Therefore, I think it fitting and proper for the school board to issue a public statement explaining the mechanism whereby the nine dress regulations were formulated by students, parents and school faculty. I also ask any parent who believes he or she had an opportunity to actually formulate the present dress regulations to state so publicly. I would ask any teacher to do likewise, but our teachers are hired and fired by the school board.

The Student Governments may have been symbolically instrumental in formulating the present policy because it is less restrictive than its predecessor, but no one interprets this to mean the students want their freedom of dress restricted by school officials.

It appears the school board is trying to justify their dress policy on the basis that it is "the people's choice." Surely the board members are educated well enough to know popular opinion is not a basis for denying the individual his self-determining, natural, human rights as guaranteed him by the Bill of Rights. These rights are inalienable and no authority, including our governments, popular vote, consensus of the people or other individuals, can take them from a free citizen. The right to dress ourselves and our children is self-determining, natural, human and inalienable and we should be able to exercise this right freely and without fear or reprisal as long as it does not infringe upon the rights of others.

In other words, the board members must realize what they want or what they might think the people want does not, and never will, justify or authorize them to alienate the human rights of the individual students and his parents. Any board member who believes otherwise does not understand the basic concepts of human rights and is, thereby, unqualified to govern human beings. Any board member who understands these concepts and still approves the dress policy does so knowing he or she is acting irresponsibly and is, thereby, unfit to govern. Board members who do not approve of the dress policy and the alienation of our human rights should say so publicly, so the electorate will know they are not condoning the action of the other board members.

They'll Do It Every Time

Deficits And Taxes

It was an interesting bit of testimony from three of the nation's better known liberal economists. Paul Samuelson, John Galbraith and Walter Heller told the Joint Congressional Economic Committee to disregard presidential warnings about spending.

Heavier deficit spending was advocated by the three, even in the face of deficits which already have set new records for peacetime budgets. The President has asked Congress to limit total spending for the current fiscal year to $250 billion, which includes a deficit projected at $27 billion.

That, the three economists indicated, is not large enough, although they neglected to mention a figure. They were not worried about a renewed outbreak of inflation, arguing that a tighter wage-price control policy could take care of that.

They did acknowledge that a tax increase would be needed by 1974 to cool off a surging economy. It is a classical formula: heavy deficit spending followed by tax increases. The trouble is it is an endless cycle, which explains why inflation became a major problem and the tax structure has become so burdensome.

Hateful Colonels

By JEFFERY HART

Ever since their coup d'etat in 1967, it has been an article of the liberal faith that the Greek colonels are fascist beasts, characters out of the Movie "Z", fit objects of detestation for all right-thinking men. George McGovern's recent statement that if he is elected he will promptly cancel all aid to the Papadopoulos regime accurately reflected this attitude. And yet the reasons for the animus remain somewhat mysterious.

David Holden, chief foreign correspondent for the London Sunday Times, has just published a book on Greece called "Greece Without Columns" which will be released here shortly by Lipincott. Holden is a liberal and he is certainly no great fan of the colonels, but he has spent a lot of time in Greece and his book is a useful corrective to the prevailing attitude. He points out that the colonels' coup was actually bloodless — at least in part because the incumbent political establishment had so thoroughly discredited itself. The colonels did not destroy parliamentary democracy in Athens. Rather, the thing had lost all its credibility.

Furthermore, the colonels' regime is anything but unique in character.

"Their authoritarian style," writes Holden, "was more typical than the preceding parliamentary system had been of the prevailing trend in other countries with similar historical, economic and social weaknesses." If Sen. McGovern is to cut off aid to every authoritarian regime, his list will be a long one.

Like all such regimes, the colonels have political prisoners, but even here their record looks better than many: "Most of the 7,000 people originally arrested were released within the first year... Within three years, the number of prisoners held on political charges of one kind or another was down to about 1,000 — roughly the same as at the end of the Karamanlis regime."

Much has been heard about the regime's use of torture, but

Holden has sifted the evidence, and he concludes that though the police have sometimes behaved brutally, such behavior is far from noted in Greece, whatever the regime in power.

What emerges from Holden's account is an authoritarian regime rather better than most others of the same kind and holding power because the available alternatives were and are politically bankrupt. The opposition in exile, for example has still not coalesced around a leader or a credible program.

There are other points worth noting. Greek citizens can enter the country and leave it at will, and thousands of Greek workers go freely to jobs in other European countries — a feature unheard of in genuinely totalitarian countries.

What would be the effect of a McGovern-like ostracism of the colonels? It certainly would not topple them, Holden says. Rather, with Nasser-like agility, they would move closer to the Soviets — and very likely would close our remaining naval facilities in the eastern Mediterranean.

NEW YORK (AP) — If we can put men on the moon, why can't we:

Get to work on time?
Keep weeds out of the garden without having to stoop over?

Avoid having that one for the road?
Catch a taxicab on a rainy day?

Build a better mouse trap without having the world make a beaten path to our door?

Grow hair on a bald head?
Put buttons on a shirt so firmly they'll never come off?

Make a zipper that won't stick — or slide when it shouldn't?

Understand our teenagers? Keep mice out of fuse boxes? Keep squirrels from nesting in the chimney?

Have a wife built like our neighbor's — the one that looks so well in a bikini?

Have a son who is driven by a goal greater than wrapping the family car round telephone poles?

Draw successfully to fill an inside straight in a poker game?

Put unerringly more than 400 feet?

Save at least a little money? Acquire an allergy to laziness?

Develop the kind of impressive personality that makes a racehorse run harder when we bet on him?

Play tennis after 40 without feeling everyone else on the courts is watching us and laughing?

Return Manhattan Island to the Indians and get our money back?

Quit pretending we're a floor lamp at cocktail parties?

Quit being the last guy to laugh at the punchline when the boss tells a pointless joke?

Win the New York State million-dollar lottery?

Conceive a more hopeful tomorrow?

Pave a road to somewhere else than hell with our good intentions?

Make good housewives satisfied with being "just a housewife"?

Grow our watermelons somewhere else than on our waists?

Stay out of wars big or little? Maybe if we had solved some of these problems first, we'd get more pleasure out of having landed on the moon. But why go to the moon if we can't escape our woes here?

Women Bouncers Enjoy Takeover Of 'Man's Job'

NEW YORK (AP) — Ellen Sigward is sexy and charming but thinks nothing of throwing a man over her shoulder and into the street.

The buxom brunette is women's lib's latest coup — a female bouncer.

She and two other aspiring bouncerettes showed up at the White Horse Inn Thursday to demonstrate how they could sweet talk or heave-ho a boisterous customer out of the tiny East side pub.

"We figured that a girl could get an unruly customer out in a nicer way," said the pub's bartender and co-owner, Peggy Doyle. Mrs. Doyle and her husband had advertised for a woman bouncer in local papers.

The pub, in nightly Sadie Hawkins style, has women bartenders and encourages women to pick up the tab for their dates.

"I'd attempt to use my feminine wiles at first, but I could turn to force because my father owned a gym and I know my way around judo and karate," said Miss Sigward.

Phyllis Seidman, 24, a tall brunette who said she favored brown leather pants for the sometimes rough job, explained her technique:

"I'd wink, throw them off guard, and then flip 'em."

She said she liked the new job opening because "I like to bounce — balls and men."

A friend taught her judo. Phyllis said, and she developed the technique by warding off men on the streets of New York.

"I know a little judo, but I'd like to stop short of that," said Li Laurie, 25, an unemployed plump blonde in a purple tee shirt and jeans.

Although they were applying for jobs in the bar, which has a small theatre to showcase women in the arts, the girls were not ardent women's lib supporters.

"We need more strong men and fewer loud-mouthed women," Ellen said.

Bomb Explosions Again Rip Belfast

BELFAST (AP) — A bomb believed intended for a British army post exploded today, apparently prematurely, killing two suspected terrorists and a girl.

Almost simultaneously with this explosion in Belfast's North Howard Street, bombs blasted two supermarkets on the outskirts of Londonderry. The blasts shattered a relative calm in Northern Ireland over the past 24 hours.

Women Bouncers Enjoy Takeover Of 'Man's Job'

NEW YORK (AP) — Ellen Sigward is sexy and charming but thinks nothing of throwing a man over her shoulder and into the street.

The buxom brunette is women's lib's latest coup — a female bouncer.

She and two other aspiring bouncettes showed up at the White Horse Inn Thursday to demonstrate how they could mouthy cockatoo being sought

BALTIMORE (AP) — With few other clues on which to proceed, city police are hoping to hear someone call, "Hello stupid."

The phrase is likely to be followed by "raucous, shrill cries...uttered with ear-piercing frequency."

Those are the favored expressions of a loquacious, sulphur-crested cockatoo, named "Cocky," reported stolen from the municipal zoo Thursday.

sweet talk or heave-ho a boisterous customer out of the tiny East side pub.

"We figured that a girl could get an unruly customer out in a nicer way," said the pub's bartender and co-owner, Peggy Doyle. Mrs. Doyle and her husband had advertised for a woman bouncer in local papers.

The pub, in nightly Sadie Hawkins style, has women bartenders and encourages women to pick up the tab for their dates.

"I'd attempt to use my feminine wiles at first, but I could turn to force because my father owned a gym and I know my way around judo and karate," said Miss Sigward.

Phyllis Seidman, 24, a tall brunette who said she favored brown leather pants for the sometimes rough job, explained her technique:

"I'd wink, throw them off guard, and then flip 'em."

She said she liked the new job opening because "I like to bounce — balls and men."

A friend taught her judo. Phyllis said, and she developed the technique by warding off men on the streets of New York.

"I know a little judo, but I'd like to stop short of that," said Li Laurie, 25, an unemployed plump blonde in a purple tee shirt and jeans.

Although they were applying for jobs in the bar, which has a small theatre to showcase women in the arts, the girls were not ardent women's lib supporters.

"We need more strong men and fewer loud-mouthed women," Ellen said.

Bomb Explosions Again Rip Belfast

BELFAST (AP) — A bomb believed intended for a British army post exploded today, apparently prematurely, killing two suspected terrorists and a girl.

Almost simultaneously with this explosion in Belfast's North Howard Street, bombs blasted two supermarkets on the outskirts of Londonderry. The blasts shattered a relative calm in Northern Ireland over the past 24 hours.

A resolution was passed to hold the next reunion at Gold Cliff Park on July 29th, 1973.

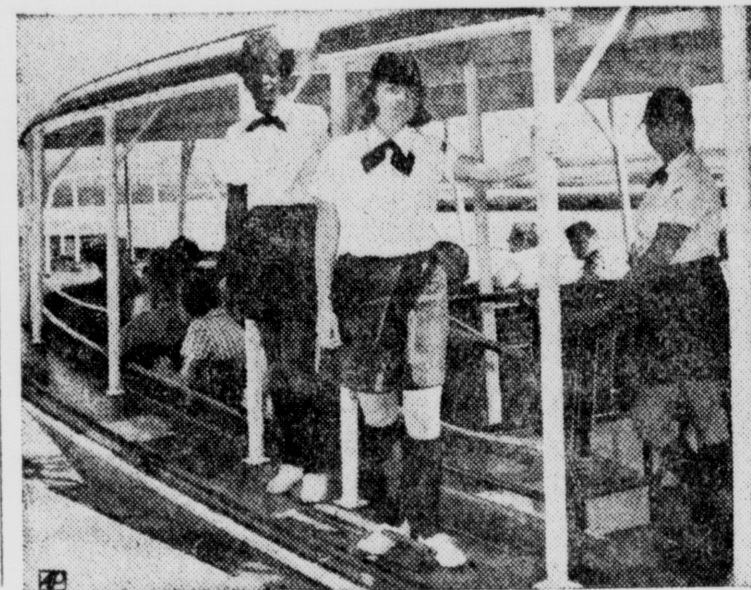

Correction

The date of the workshop for the flower show to be held Sept. 23-24 at the Chillicothe Veterans Administration Hospital will be 10 a.m. Aug. 15 in the recreation hall and not Aug. 25 as previously reported.

Women Break Into New Field With The Navy

HEAVEY! — Seaman Apprentice Terry J. Schorsch secures the tour boat to the pier.

BOATSWAIN'S MATES — Seaman Helen D. Sheppard, Seaman Apprentice Judy A. East and Seaman Apprentice

Terry J. Schorsch (left to right) pose on their boat after docking.

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — Women drivers are not unusual except when the vehicle happens to be a Navy boat. The Navy recently assigned, on a trial basis, three women to the tour boat going to the USS Arizona Memorial.

"It's just like driving a car," said Seaman Apprentice Terry J. Schorsch, 19. She, Seaman Helen D. Sheppard, 23, and Seaman Apprentice Judy A. East, 19, are line-handlers and coxswains-in-training on the 64-foot passenger barges. They fasten the lines of the boats to the pier and steer the boats around the harbor.

None had prior experience in working with boats, and all three had trouble making a smooth docking at the pier. "I kept running into the pier," Miss Schorsch said. "I didn't bump into it, I crashed into it."

But their supervisor, Boat-swain's Mate First Class Edward Smith said the women are "doing a good job and show a great deal of enthusiasm."

"The first day they got here, I told them I expected them to do everything, including running the boat," Smith said.

He admitted he didn't like the idea at first, but now wouldn't mind a female crew. "If they can do the job, I'm all for it," he said.

The three young women probably became the first women in the Navy to design their own uniforms. Miss East made the outfits of white blouses and navy blue culottes, which are worn with blue knee socks and white sneakers.

Slothful Dog Fails On Job

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — Clyde, the not-so-watchful watchdog, has found himself all caught up in the middle of a marijuana rap.

Sheriff Fred Boling on Thursday arrested James H. Garner, 28, of Euless, Tex., and Wynant Lee Moore, 27, of Lexington, Ky., after he and State Trooper W. E. Bowles spotted the two in a field stuffing marijuana into 50-pound plastic bags.

The sheriff said the dog, Clyde, had apparently been stationed in the field to warn the two of intruders but he didn't make a sound when the policemen approached.

Correction

The date of the workshop for the flower show to be held Sept. 23-24 at the Chillicothe Veterans Administration Hospital will be 10 a.m. Aug. 15 in the recreation hall and not Aug. 25 as previously reported.

Women Break Into New Field With The Navy

HEAVEY! — Seaman Apprentice Terry J. Schorsch secures the tour boat to the pier.

BOATSWAIN'S MATES — Seaman Helen D. Sheppard, Seaman Apprentice Judy A. East and Seaman Apprentice

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — Women drivers are not unusual except when the vehicle happens to be a Navy boat. The Navy recently assigned, on a trial basis, three women to the tour boat going to the USS Arizona Memorial.

"It's just like driving a car," said Seaman Apprentice Terry J. Schorsch, 19. She, Seaman Helen D. Sheppard, 23, and Seaman Apprentice Judy A. East, 19, are line-handlers and coxswains-in-training on the 64-foot passenger barges. They fasten the lines of the boats to the pier and steer the boats around the harbor.

None had prior experience in working with boats, and all three had trouble making a smooth docking at the pier. "I kept running into the pier," Miss Schorsch said. "I didn't bump into it, I crashed into it."

But their supervisor, Boatswain's Mate First Class Edward Smith said the women are "doing a good job and show a great deal of enthusiasm."

"The first day they got here, I told them I expected them to do everything, including running the boat," Smith said.

He admitted he didn't like the idea at first, but now wouldn't mind a female crew. "If they can do the job, I'm all for it," he said.

The three young women probably became the first women in the Navy to design their own uniforms. Miss East made the outfits of white blouses and navy blue culottes, which are worn with blue knee socks and white sneakers.

Personals

Slothful Dog Fails On Job

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — Clyde, the not-so-watchful watchdog, has found himself all caught up in the middle of a marijuana rap.

Sheriff Fred Boling on Thursday arrested James H. Garner, 28, of Eufess, Tex., and Wynant Lee Moore, 27, of Lexington, Ky., after he and State Trooper W. E. Bowles spotted the two in a field stuffing marijuana into 50-pound plastic bags.

The sheriff said the dog, Clyde, had apparently been stationed in the field to warn the two of intruders but he didn't make a sound when the policemen approached.

Seitz Reunion Held Sunday

The 49th annual Seitz Reunion was held Sunday at Ted Lewis Park in Circleville. A basket dinner was served at noon.

A business meeting and election of new officers was held in the afternoon. Serving for the coming year are Harvey Seitz, president; Oscar Seitz, vice president; Marcella Barnhart, secretary-treasurer; Robert Garrison, Dewey Seitz and Nolan Seitz, committeemen.

There were 67 relatives and friends attending from Columbus, Chillicothe, Massillon, Leesburg, Amanda, Ashville, South Bloomingville, Londonderry, Frankfort, Pomeroy, Oakhill and Circleville.

North All-Stars Stop South, 13-6

By MICHAEL A. VERESPEJ
Associated Press Writer
CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The football series between the North and South high school All-Stars is all even today, thanks to quarterback Dave Buckley of Akron Kenmore and a stout North defense led by Rick Kaczmarek of Toledo Woodward.

Tye Yankees captured their second straight All-Star football contest Friday at Fawcett Stadium here with a 13-6 triumph highlighted by a 66-yard scoring aerial on the first play from scrimmage. The series now stands 12-12-3.

Buckley heaved the bomb to Doug Stubs of Warren Harding, who gathered the ball in on the right sideline near the 25-yard line and scooted into the end zone. Stubs set up the opening kickoff by returning the opening kickoff 22 yards to the 34.

"We just felt we'd go for all the marbles and shake 'em up," said winning coach Tom Batta of Warren Harding. "And we did just that."

Coach Dave Hurst of Cincinnati Sycamore, on the losing side, called it "the big play of the game" and added that he'd like to see it again.

Braves Top Cincy Reds, 7-5

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Just pretend it's me on the mound," Atlanta's Eddie Mathews told Jim Breazeale, "and pull your normal stunt."

So the rookie pinch-hitter did just that. Employing what almost has become his trademark this season, Breazeale jumped on Clay Carroll's first pitch for a three-run homer.

That triggered a five-run eighth inning which powered the Braves to a 7-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 10-5, Houston defeated San Francisco 6-3, Montreal stopped Philadelphia 4-1, the Chicago Cubs drubbed the New York Mets 7-2 and Los Angeles slipped past San Diego 2-1 in 10 innings.

The homer was Breazeale's third of the season. All of them have been in a pinch-hitting role and all of them have tied games in late innings.

The homer only tied the game. But the Braves weren't finished with Carroll. Ralph Garr singled, Hank Aaron walked, Earl Williams singled for the go-ahead run, the Dusty Baker put the finishing touches on the rally with a run-scoring single.

Richie Hebner of the Pirates batted in the cleanup position in place of Willie Stargell, who sat out the game against the Cardinals due to a recent tooth extraction. And Hebner picked up where Stargell left off, slugging a pair of homers.

Gene Clines knocked in three runs with a pair of singles to join Hebner in leading the 16-hit assault against six St. Louis pitchers.

Bengals, Lions Clash Tonight At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Detroit Lions plan to step up their running attack and the Cincinnati Bengals hope to untrack their entire offense when the clubs meet here Saturday night in an exhibition contest.

The game will mark the third pre-season meeting between the two teams in the last three years with each club claiming one victory.

Lions Coach Joe Schmidt said that he was pleased with the way his team moved the ball in its 31-22 decision over the Miami Dolphins last week but "I thought we should have come a little stronger with our running game."

Greg Landry and Bill Munson combined for 15 of 22 passes for 288 yards but their highly-respected running backs picked up only 84 yards. One of them, Steve Owens, was held to 19 yards on 17 carries.

In the Bengals opening exhibition game, a 24-14 loss to the Green Bay Packers, the team managed a total of 150 yards on offense and did not score one touchdown from scrimmage. Rookie free safety Tommy Casanova ran back a punt 52 yards for the lone touchdown.

Although the Bengals gained only 64 yards passing, Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown said "both of our quarterbacks threw pretty well."

He said that Virgil Carter's performance "wasn't outstanding, but he had three or four passes on the mark that were dropped. Kenny (Anderson) hit on seven of eight and that speaks for itself."

Regarding Detroit's quarterbacks, Brown said that Landry "kind of rifles the ball. He is pretty darn quick on his feet. Munson is very good too."

As for their running backs, Brown said that Owens, Albie Taylor and Mel Farr "are about as good as they come."

The Lions plan to shuffle their quarterbacks and the Bengals intend to start Anderson. Carter started last week.

The Bengals will start three

Bobby Grich led off the ninth inning with a home run to power Baltimore and Mike Cuellar over Boston, Cuellar struck out 13 Red Sox, but yielded the tying run in the eighth on three singles. Grich then came through with his game-winning hit off Boston reliever Don Newhauser in the ninth.

George Scott drove in two runs with a triple and homer to lead Milwaukee over New York. Skip Lockwood, with ninth-inning relief help from Frank Linzy, improved his record to 6-9.

Oakland won Friday night's first game with Chicago when Joe Rudi spanked a two-run homer in the 19th inning. The game, halted by curfew with the score tied 3-3 after 17 innings Thursday night, was picked up prior to the scheduled game between the A's and White Sox.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, who pitched the two innings of the first game to pick up the victory, started the second game and became the loser in that one. Dave Lemonds and Cy Acosta combined on a two-hitter and Carlos May knocked in the game's only run with a first-inning single.

Tigers Drop Out Of Lead In AL After 5-1 Tribe Win

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Baltimore Orioles are in first place in the American League East, but Billy Martin says they shouldn't make themselves too comfortable.

"Tell 'em it's only temporary and tell 'em not to get used to it," says Detroit Tiger Manager Martin. "Tell 'em we'll be back."

The Tigers have lost nine of their last 12 games.

The New York Yankees were beaten 4-2 by the Milwaukee Brewers and dropped 2 1/2 games behind the Orioles. Boston is in fourth, four games out and Cleveland in fifth, nine back.

In the West, the Oakland A's maintained an uneasy one-game lead over the Chicago White Sox after splitting two games. The A's defeated the White Sox 5-3 in the continuation of Thursday night's suspended game and the White Sox then took the second contest 1-0.

In Friday night's other American League games, the Kansas City Royals turned back the Texas Rangers 2-0 and the California Angels beat the Minnesota Twins 3-1.

Steve Dunning pitched a seven-hitter to tame the Tigers for the Indians. He pitched shutout ball until the ninth inning, when Micky Stanley spoiled the scoreless string with a home run.

The Indians scored three unearned runs in the first inning as a result of a muffed line drive by Detroit left fielder Gates Brown.

Bobby Grich led off the ninth inning with a home run to power Baltimore and Mike Cuellar over Boston, Cuellar struck out 13 Red Sox, but yielded the tying run in the eighth on three singles. Grich then came through with his game-winning hit off Boston reliever Don Newhauser in the ninth.

Circleville Stars Blast Kluszewski Campers, 18-6

The Circleville All-Star took on the Ted Kluszewski Baseball Camp team and won 18-6 at Bainbridge Friday evening.

Dave Marshall, Dave Cline and Butch McFarland combined on the mound in the win, permitting 11 hits, walking four and striking out seven.

The Circleville All-Stars rapped 18 hits with Roy Huffer slugging a homerun and a single, Butch McFarland hitting a triple, a double and a single, Todd Mancini a triple, Tom Logan, Tom McGuire, Dave Cline and Dave Buckley each hit a double and a single, Dave Marshall doubled and Scott Willoughby, Pat Poorman, Ron Hill all singled.

Although the Bengals gained only 64 yards passing, Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown said "both of our quarterbacks threw pretty well."

Youth Succumbs To Heat Shock

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 16-year-old high school boy who collapsed from heat shock during football practice Aug 2 died Thursday.

Mark Valentine had undergone a series of blood transfusions after suffering the heat shock. He had been moved to Ohio State University Hospital from Hardin Memorial Hospital in Kenton.

Hospital officials had described his condition as "critical" since the transfer. Cause of death was not released.

Blood for the series of transfusions was donated by employees at the North American Rockwell Corp. plant in Kenton where Mark's father, Curtis, is general foreman.

North All-Stars Stop South, 13-6

By MICHAEL A. VERESPEJ
Associated Press Writer
CANTON, Ohio (AP) — The football series between the North and South high school All-Stars is all even today, thanks to quarterback Dave Buckley of Akron Kenmore and a stout North defense led by Rick Kaczmarek of Toledo Woodward.

The Yankees captured their second straight All-Star football contest Friday at Fawcett Stadium here with a 13-6 triumph highlighted by a 66-yard scoring aerial on the first play from scrimmage. The series now stands 12-12-3.

Buckley heaved the bomb to Doug Stubs of Warren Harding, who gathered the ball in on the right sideline near the 25-yard line and scooted into the end zone. Stubs set up the quick score by returning the opening kickoff 22 yards to the 34.

"We just felt we'd go for all the marbles and shake 'em up," said winning coach Tom Batta of Warren Harding. "And we did just that."

Coach Dave Hurst of Cincinnati Sycamore, on the losing side, called it "the big play of the game" and added that he'd like to see it again.

"If they ran that play 10 times our boy would have stopped it," moaned Hurst. "We had it covered but the boy was just beat."

Stubs, who became an instant hero, put on goats horns seconds later, flubbing a punt and giving the South possession on the North 12 thanks to the alertness of Rick Daniels of Sycamore who pounced on the ball.

Two plays later Upper Arlington's Rick Slager fired a scoring pass to Archie Griffin of Columbus Eastmoor and it looked like the game would be tied again after five minutes of play.

But Dan Schwarber of Cincinnati Moeller failed to match the successful conversion made by Ken Kuhn of Louisville and the North still led, 7-6.

A bad snap on fourth down that slithered along the ground gave the North possession on the South 32 one play before the first quarter ended.

Then Buckley turned the corner for eight and Greg Boykin of Kent Roosevelt bucked off right tackle for 18 yards, setting up Buckley's five-yard touchdown run that ended the scoring.

After that the game turned into a succession of fumbles, interceptions and penalties that hampered both teams.

But what hurt the Rebels the most was Kaczmarek.

The quarterback turned defensive back intercepted a pass on the second play of the first half and then broke up a four-down pass after the South had penetrated to the Yankee 12 on its next series, a drive aided by penalties.

The South also marched to the 12 with a 62-yard drive at the start of the final quarter as David Tuttle of Steubenville Central Catholic alternated smashes up the middle with spurts around end by Gordon Bell of Troy.

But Rick Koschack of Oregon Strich smashed through to nail two running plays for losses and Kaczmarek broke up a pass, forcing the South to try a 35-yard field goal that was off to the right.

"Our defense gave up a lot of ground," said Batta, "but they hung in there and made the big play."

"I'm just glad we won," he exclaimed. "We didn't move the ball consistently while they did and we made so many offensive mistakes. They tried to beat us on the outside in the first half and then switched strategies and rammed the ball down our throats in the second half, running up the middle, using counter-plays and traps."

"That long bomb and the one bad center snap was the game," Batta said.

Hurst agreed and pointed to several fumbles that hurt his team in the second half, particularly Bell's fumble of a punt on his own 32 with 1:20 left.

By the time the South got the ball back there were only 15 seconds left and Tom Lopinski of Walsh intercepted a bomb thrown by Craig Nagel of Fairfield and ran across the width of the field as the clock ticked its final seconds.

Circleville Stars Blast Kluszewski Campers, 18-6

The Circleville All-Star took on the Ted Kluszewski Baseball Camp team and won 18-6 at Bainbridge Friday evening.

Dave Marshall, Dave Cline and Butch McFarland combined on the mound in the win, permitting 11 hits, walking four and striking out seven.

The Circleville All-Stars rapped 18 hits with Roy Huffer slugging a homerun and a single, Butch McFarland hitting a triple and a double and a single, Todd Mancini a triple, Tom Logan, Tom McGuire, Dave Cline and Dave Beckley each hit a double and a single, Dave Marshall doubled and Scott Willoughby, Pat Poorman, Ron Hill all singled.

The All-Stars will play the McArthur Merchants at Chillicothe 2 p.m. Sunday and 6 p.m. Sunday the All-Stars will play at Teays Valley against the Mt. Sterling club.

Braves Top Cincy Reds, 7-5

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Just pretend it's me on the mound," Atlanta's Eddie Mathews told Jim Breazeale, "and pull your normal stunt."

So the rookie pinch-hitter did just that. Employing what almost has become his trademark this season, Breazeale jumped on Clay Carroll's first pitch for a three-run homer.

That triggered a five-run eighth inning which powered the Braves to a 7-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 10-5, Houston defeated San Francisco 6-3, Montreal stopped Philadelphia 4-1, the Chicago Cubs drubbed the New York Mets 7-2 and Los Angeles slipped past San Diego 2-1 in 10 innings.

The homer was Breazeale's third of the season. All of them have been in a pinch-hitting role and all of them have tied games in late innings.

The homer only tied the game. But the Braves weren't finished with Carroll. Ralph Garr singled, Hank Aaron walked, Earl Williams singled for the go-ahead run, the Dusty Baker put the finishing touches on the rally with a run-scoring single.

Richie Hebner of the Pirates batted in the cleanup position in place of Willie Stargell, who sat out the game against the Cardinals due to a recent tooth extraction, and Hebner picked up where Stargell left off, slugging a pair of homers.

Gene Clines knocked in three runs with a pair of singles to join Hebner in leading the 16-hit assault against six St. Louis pitchers.

Houston erupted for five runs in the second inning en route to trimming Cincinnati's lead in the West to 5 1/2 games. Larry Dierker went the distance for his 11th victory.

Mike Torrez yielded just three Philadelphia hits—one of them Don Money's home run—and triggered a three-run rally in the eighth inning with a tie-breaking single that paved the way to his 13th victory of the year.

Milt Pappas scattered five New York hits and led Chicago's attack by driving in five runs with a homer, a double and a single to draw the Cubs within a game of the second-place Mets.

Wes Parker, who scored the Dodgers' first run, drove in the winner with a two-out single in the 10th inning that sent the Padres down to their fifth defeat in six games.

Bengals, Lions Clash Tonight At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Detroit Lions plan to step up their running attack and the Cincinnati Bengals hope to untrack their entire offense when the clubs meet here Saturday night in an exhibition contest.

The game will mark the third pre-season meeting between the two teams in the last three years with each club claiming one victory.

Lions Coach Joe Schmidt said that he was pleased with the way his team moved the ball in its 31-23 decision over the Miami Dolphins last week but "I thought we should have come a little stronger with our running game."

Greg Landry and Bill Munson combined for 15 of 22 passes for 288 yards but their highly-respected running backs picked up only 84 yards. One of them, Steve Owens, was held to 19 yards on 17 carries.

In the Bengals opening exhibition game, a 24-14 loss to the Green Bay Packers, the team managed a total of 150 yards on offense and did not score one touchdown from scrimmage. Rookie free safety Tommy Casanova ran back a punt 52 yards for the lone touchdown.

Although the Bengals gained only 64 yards passing, Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown said "both of our quarterbacks threw pretty well."

He said that Virgil Carter's performance "wasn't outstanding, but he had three or four passes on the mark that were dropped, Kenny (Anderson) hit on seven of eight and that speaks for itself."

Regarding Detroit's quarterbacks, Brown said that Landry "kind of rifles the ball. He is pretty darn quick on his feet. Munson is very good too."

As for their running backs, Brown said that Owens, Albie Taylor and Mel Farr "are about as good as they come."

The Lions plan to shuffle their quarterbacks and the Bengals intend to start Anderson, Carter started last week.

The Bengals will start three rookies on defense — Sherman White at end, Tommy Casanova at safety and Jim LeClair at linebacker.

The Lions plan to use rookie defensive end Herb Orvis for the first time. The no. 1 draft choice has been sidelined with a cracked ankle bone.

Tigers Drop Out Of Lead In AL After 5-1 Tribe Win

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles are in first place in the American League East, but Billy Martin says they shouldn't make themselves too comfortable.

"Tell 'em it's only temporary and tell 'em not to get used to it," says Detroit Tiger Manager Martin. "Tell 'em we'll be back."

Hassie Blaze Wins Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hassie Blaze set a new lifetime mark of 2:00.45 for the mile Friday night in winning the featured race at Scioto Downs with a strong stretch drive.

Hassie Blaze moved from third position at the head of the stretch to a one-length victory and paid $7.80, $4.40 and $3.20. Painted Doll returned $10 and $6 for second and Flashy Buckeye $8.60 for show.

Brenna Scott, trained and driven by Jim Arledge of Circleville, won the eighth race at Scioto Downs Friday, pacing the mile in 2:04.1. The four year old bay mare is owned by John Ehrhart and John H. Ehrhart of Bucyrus.

The 2-5 daily double combination of Ozark Goldwidge and Topland was worth $67.20, and the 3-5 quinnella $19.80. Attendance was 6,594; handle $337,991.

Martin exuded confidence Friday night despite a 5-1 loss to the Cleveland Indians that dropped his Tigers out of the top spot for the first time since July 10. The Orioles moved in by a half-game after beating Boston 2-1.

The Tigers have lost nine of their last 12 games.

The New York Yankees were beaten 4-2 by the Milwaukee Brewers and dropped 2 1/2 games behind the Orioles. Boston is in fourth, four games out and Cleveland in fifth, nine back.

In the West, the Oakland A's maintained an uneasy one-game lead over the Chicago White Sox after splitting two games. The A's defeated the White Sox 5-3 in the continuation of Thursday night's suspended game and the White Sox then took the second contest 1-0.

In Friday night's other American League games, the Kansas City Royals turned back the Texas Rangers 2-0 and the California Angels beat the Minnesota Twins 3-1.

Steve Dunning pitched a seven-inning shutout for the Tigers for the Indians. He pitched shutout ball until the ninth inning, when Micky Stanley spoiled the scoreless string with a home run.

line drive by Detroit left fielder George Brown.

Bobby Grich led off the ninth inning with a home run to power Baltimore and Mike Cuellar over Boston. Cuellar struck out 13 Red Sox, but yielded the tying run in the eighth on three singles. Grich then came through with his game-winning hit off Boston reliever Don Newhauser in the ninth.

George Scott drove in two runs with a triple and homer to lead Milwaukee over New York. Skip Lockwood, with ninth-inning relief help from Frank Linzy, improved his record to 6-9.

Oakland won Friday night's first game with Chicago when Joe Rudi spanked a two-run homer in the 19th inning. The game, halted by curfew with the score tied 3-3 after 17 innings Thursday night, was picked up prior to the scheduled game between the A's and White Sox.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter, who pitched the two innings of the first game to pick up the victory, started the second game and became the loser in that one. Dave Lemonds and Cy Acosta combined on a two-hitter and Carlos May knocked in the game's only run with a first-inning single.

Roger Nelson pitched a three-hitter and Richie Scheinblum and Amos Otis hit home runs to pace Kansas City over Texas.

Abortion Law Cuts Births In California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's liberalized abortion law has resulted in a steep drop in birth rates and a shrinking of welfare rolls, population researchers report.

"There is beginning to be a reduction in the supply of children who become—because of the circumstances of their parents—welfare recipients through government aid to dependent children and foster child programs," Kingsley Davis, chairman of the University of California's International Population and Urban Research Center at Berkeley, said today.

"We probably have the latest data of any state with a liberalized abortion law," Davis added. "I would assume that much the same thing would happen in other states given the same set of circumstances."

The state's 1967 Therapeutic Abortions Act allows abortions if the mental or physical health of the mother is endangered, or for pregnancies resulting from rape or incest. There were 116,749 legal abortions in California during 1971, the State Department of Public Health says.

Jack Thompson, executive secretary of the state Board of Social Welfare, agrees with Davis' conclusions, based "on tendencies and trends and on the basis of limited knowledge."

Thompson said the board is trying to pin down exact figures on declines in welfare rolls directly attributable to legalized abortion. California's abortion law, along with New York's, is considered among the most liberal in the United States.

Believe Fireball Meteor Shower

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Washington State University astronomer says the fireball seen soaring over the northwestern United States and Canada may have been a brilliant mass of deteriorating meteors from the constellation Perseus.

One or more flaming objects, variously described as orange, red and blue, were sighted Thursday flashing across skies over six states and Alberta province in Canada.

Abortion Law Cuts Births In California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's liberalized abortion law has resulted in a steep drop in birth rates and a shrinking of welfare rolls, population researchers report.

"There is beginning to be a reduction in the supply of children who become—because of the circumstances of their parents—welfare recipients through government aid to dependent children and foster child programs," Kingsley Davis, chairman of the University of California's International Population and Urban Research Center at Berkeley, said today.

Westfall Makes School-Opening Preparations

New Superintendent Gordon Massie presented his first official report to the Westfall board at a Thursday evening session. Also present in an official capacity, after the oath of office was given, was Dave Long, who was appointed to serve out the term of Eugene Bush.

School-opening preparations, including a survey of bus routing, were the primary considerations of the board. Five resignations received were acted upon.

Resigning were: Mrs. Suzanne Beck, Monroe sixth grade, due to added home responsibilities; Miss Carolyn Jackson, Derby second grade; Mrs. Brenda Rittlinger, high school secretary, who has taken an industrial plant position in this area.

Superintendent Gordon Massie informed the board that contracts sent to Mr. and Mrs. San Schoonover were returned unsigned, the couple stating that "unforeseen circumstances" had prevented them from assuming the teaching posts offered locally.

BOARD members then approved teaching contracts for Cinda Justice, Jeff Bigam, Vera Steinhilber, Clara Massey, Faye Mullett and Norma Feldman.

Also employed were Mrs. Anne Nelson, elementary physical education at Derby and Monroe; Mrs. Robert Metzger, high school secretary position. Mrs. Metzger resides at Route 1, Williamsport. Mrs. Nelson holds a degree from Marshall University in physical education.

The contract for milk delivery was awarded to Blue Ribbon Dairy for 1972-73 and the board adopted the new, revised program for free and reduced price lunches this school year.

After reviewing estimates, authorization was given to install an underground 8,000 gallon gasoline at the high school to replace the existing tank which services school-operated vehicles.

Annually, school cooks spend one day in pre-school preparation of their respective cafeterias, unpacking equipment and other duties. This year, the board voted to pay all district cooks for this additional day of work.

A resolution was passed to again participate in the Title VI master plan to provide speech and special education classes for district children under the direction of a supervisor. The program covers a three-county area, including all Pickaway County schools.

Attending the meeting, which was recessed to Aug. 21, were Massie, Long, board president James Dean, Mrs. Jeanette Lett, Bruce Stevenson Jr., Cooke Metzger and clerk Kenneth Reid.

Driver Falls Asleep; Hits Village Home

James P. Ankrom, 19, New Holland, suffered minor abrasions and a stiff neck when he fell asleep at the wheel of his car and crashed into a New Holland house 3:15 a.m. Saturday. No one was injured in the house.

Ankrom told Deputy Earl Kuhn that he fell asleep after crossing into Pickaway County on Front St. in the village.

Marks indicate that the car left the left side of the road, jumped a curve and drove 32 feet before it sideswiped a utility pole on the right side.

The car continued 38 feet farther where it crashed into the southwest corner of a house owned by Donald L. Funk, 150 W. Fraont St.

There was no estimate of damage.

Youth Hurt By Trailer

Ivan K. Crane, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Crane, 435 S. Scioto St., suffered a fractured left leg and bruised knee in a freak mishap in the Pickaway County parking lot, 123 W. Franklin St.

Young Crane, apparently playing in the area, jumped on a parked trailer. The trailer started moving and the youth tried to stop its momentum.

However, the trailer pinned him to a garage.

He was treated at Berger Hospital's emergency room.

There was a motorcade eastward on Main Street to the Lancaster Pike, Nicholas Drive and the high school. It has not been an easy week for band members. Their day has been filled with training sessions from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., except for a two hour break in the afternoon and meal periods.

Band director Gary Dean will have the members on a rigorous training schedule during the entire marching season. There's more than just tooting on a horn or beating a drum to being in the band. It's a lot of hard work.

Whenever you see a Tiger bandman, stop and tell him how much you enjoy the band in parades and at the football games. It will help make all that hard work worthwhile.

BEGINNING Monday there will be no paper carrier in the village of South Bloomfield. Herald subscribers may pick up the paper at Ron's Ashland Service Station.

Findlay Couple's Son Left In Turkey Due To Mixup

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Aaron Odunkesener will be 1 year old Aug. 28. His mother hopes to have a party for him, "if we can just get somebody with enough authority, somebody high enough to help us," be reunited with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Sefik Odunkesener are back in their Findlay home after a visit to his family in Turkey.

But young Aaron had to be left behind, half a world away, because of what to his parents is a complex and incomprehensible situation over his citizenship and documents.

Odunkesener has lived in the United States three years and hopes to become an American citizen, but he made the trip under his Turkish passport. His wife's American passport was issued for both her and Aaron, who was born in Findlay.

But when the family arrived in Turkey, they were informed by government officials that the boy would require a Turkish passport in order to leave the country.

Low Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The summary of Ohio weather conditions as reported by the National Weather Service:

Cloudy skies prevailed over most of the state during the night and just before daybreak temperatures were in the 60s at all the major reporting points. Showers and thundershowers were spreading eastward over western sections of the state.

A frontal system from northern Lake Huron southwestward to northern Illinois is moving very slowly southeastward. A southerly flow of moist and warm air will continue over Ohio today and thundershowers are expected to develop over most sections. High temperatures this afternoon should be in the 80s over the entire state.

The remainder of the weekend should continue warm and humid with still the threat of thundershowers again on Sunday. Tonight's lows will be mostly in the 60s. Highs Sunday afternoon are expected to reach the middle or upper 80s.

OHIO — Variable cloudiness and warm with a chance of showers or thundershowers today, tonight and Sunday. Highs today and Sunday in the 80s. Low tonight in the 60s and upper 50s.

Cam Ranh Bay

swallow up the few Vietnamese.

There's also a major security problem. There have been more sapper attacks in the past three months than at any previous time in the war.

The fate of Cam Ranh Bay seems more likely to be that experienced by the An Khe Valley base camp of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division. That installation was torn down to its foundations by corrupt Vietnamese officers and entrepreneurs. The Dong Ba Tin helicopter base outside Cam Ranh has been partially razed in similar style.

Departure of the Americans has diminished hopes of making Cam Ranh an industrial region for private enterprise. The Vietnamese have always regarded the climate here as insufferable.

The few Americans left roam the peninsula like the last survivors of a doomed civilization, smiling at signs on empty roads that read, "Go slow, congested area." The shifting sands are already covering some of the back highways. The approaching monsoon with its torrential rain is expected to bring quick ruin. Cam Ranh seems headed on the same road to oblivion taken by such World War II bases as Guadalcanal and Saipan.

Bike Rider Falls Into Car's Path

Four-year-old Richard Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hardy Jr., Orient, suffered only a bruised calf when he fell from his bicycle into the path of a car 5 p.m. Friday.

Flora Roach, 29, Columbus, was passing the youth on Willow Drive when he lost his balance and fell towards the car.

Investigating Pickaway County Sheriff's deputies say the handlebars of the bicycle struck the right rear side of the car.

Mrs. Georgia Sweet — 869-2152

The community notes with sadness the passing of Guy Creamer, 83, who was formerly a prominent farmer in the Derby community. He and Mrs. Creamer attended church in Derby Methodist Church and the family participated in community activities and he leaves many friends in this area.

Mark Hosler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Hosler of Rt. 2, Orient and a 1972 graduate of Westfall High School, is among students featured in the sixth annual edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students 1971-1972."

Mark was an outstanding student, especially in the music field. Among his accomplishments in music are the fact he was awarded superior ratings on his performances and during his Senior year he was president of the band. He received the Westfall High School Outstanding Bandsman Award. During his entire four years at Westfall he played cornet in the concert, marching, pep and stage bands.

Westfall High School is proud of him as are his friends and neighbors in this area. He will attend Ohio State University in the fall and our best wishes for his success go with him.

Miss Jeanne Shannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shannon of Orient, and Bruce Reid, son of Mr. Joan Reid and the late Mr. Reid of Orient, were united in marriage in the Derby United Methodist Church on July 21, with Rev. Ken Chapin, and Rev. Richard Maurer of Somerset officiating. A reception followed in the Church Fellowship Hall.

The bride will teach at Westfall High School this coming season and Mr. Reid is attending Ohio State University, and will be associated with WLWC.

After a trip to Atwood Lake, the couple will reside in Circleville.

Miss Claudia Strayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Strayer of Clark's Lake and Dallas Smiley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Douglas Smiley of Erie were united in marriage on July 29 in the Mt. Sterling United Methodist Church with the Reverend Clair Kohr officiating. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. The couple will reside in Lakewood.

I was misinformed as to scores in the two games between Mt. Sterling and Derby games. The Pony league scores were 6-5 and 3-2. Sorry!

Derby's Vacation Bible School is in session this week at Derby United Methodist Church August 14-18 from 9:00-11:30 a.m.

Southwest Church of the Nazarene is holding its vacation Bible School Aug. 21-25 from 9:11-30 a.m. Anyone needing a ride may call Mrs. Steve Feazel at 877-3659.

Anniversaries — Mr. and Mrs.

With the help of some mighty good friends we have come up with the following winners in the Derby Homecoming baby contest. Any names omitted were not intentional, and if anyone can supply the missing names I will be most happy to include them next week:

6 months-1 year — 3. Lori Wilson.

1-2 — 1. Jennifer Mounts, 2. Jennifer Cahall, 3. Todd Walters.

2-4 years (girls) — 1. Jody Walters, 2. Angela McPherson.

2-4 years (boys) — 1. Bowshier, 2. Rodney Lee Terry, 3. Clyde Onewehr.

Princess — 1. Tiffany Butts, 2. Shelley Butcher, 3. Barbara Seyfang.

Prince — 1. Mike Wardell, 2. Tommy Walters, 3. Eddie Van Hoose.

Franklin E. Walter, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Walter of Todd, North Carolina, won the competition sponsored by the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America.

First place winners from 20 states competed. All contestants were in the 17-18 year age group. They were given 100 bricks and allowed two hours to assemble them into a wall eight inches thick, 48½ inches long and eight bricks high.

Criteria for judging was levelness of the bricks, spacing, and correct use of the tools.

The Walters are former residents of Cedar Hill. Franklin attended Walnut Twp. School through the first eight grades. He recently graduated from Beaver Creek High School in North Carolina.

Westfall Makes School - Opening Preparations

New Superintendent Gordon Massie presented his first official report to the Westfall board at a Thursday evening session. Also present in an official capacity, after the oath of office was given, was Dave Long, who was appointed to serve out the term of Eugene Bush.

School-opening preparations, including a survey of bus

routing, were the primary considerations of the board. Five resignations received were acted upon.

Resigning were: Mrs. Suzanne Beck, Monroe sixth grade, due to added home responsibilities; Miss Carolyn Jackson, Derby second grade; Mrs. Brenda Rittinger, high school secretary, who has taken an industrial plant position in this area.

Superintendent Gordon Massie informed the board that contracts sent to Mr. and Mrs. San Schoonover were returned unsigned, the couple stating that "unforeseen circumstances" had prevented them from assuming the teaching posts offered locally.

BOARD members then approved teaching contracts for Cinda Justice, Jeff Bigam, Vera Steinhauser, Clara Massey, Faye Mullett and Norma Feldman.

Also employed were Mrs. Anne Nelson, elementary physical education at Derby and Monroe; Mrs. Robert Metzger, high school secretary position. Mrs. Metzger resides at Route 1, Williamsport. Mrs. Nelson holds a degree from Marshall University in physical education.

The contract for milk delivery was awarded to Blue Ribbon Dairy for 1972-73 and the board adopted the new, revised program for free and reduced price lunches this school year.

After reviewing estimates, authorization was given to install an underground 8,000 gallon gasoline at the high school to replace the existing tank which services school-operated vehicles.

Annually, school cooks spend one day in pre-school preparation of their respective cafeterias, unpacking equipment and other duties. This year, the board voted to pay all district cooks for this additional day of work.

A resolution was passed to again participate in the Title VI master plan to provide speech and special education classes for district children under the direction of a supervisor. The program covers a three-county area, including all Pickaway County schools.

Attending the meeting, which was recessed to Aug. 21, were Massie, Long, board president James Dean, Mrs. Jeanne Lett, Bruce Stevenson Jr., Cooke Metzger and clerk Kenneth Reid.

There was a motorcade eastward on Main Street to the Lancaster Pike, Nicholas Drive and the high school. It has not been an easy week for band members. Their day has been filled with training sessions from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., except for a two hour break in the afternoon and meal periods.

And band director Gary Dean will have the members on a rigorous training schedule during the entire marching season. There's more than just tooting on a horn or beating a drum to being in the band. It's a lot of hard work.

Whenever you see a Tiger bandman, stop and tell him how much you enjoy the band in parades and at the football games. It will help make all that hard work worthwhile.

BEGINNING Monday there will be no paper carrier in the village of South Bloomfield. Herald subscribers may pick up the paper at Ron's Ashland Service Station.

Driver Held In 100 MPH Auto Chase

Auxiliary Deputy Sheriff Norm McClelland, on patrol in the county's western sector Friday, clocked a northbound car on State Route 104 at 100 miles per hour and then apprehended the driver following a high speed chase with the aid of the Hamilton Twp. police Department.

Deputy McClelland said driver of the car, Robert O. Neff, 22, Route 2, Waverly, turned onto Route 665 from Route 104 and then turned onto Route 23 north.

He was stopped north of Scioto Downs.

Neff, who allegedly had a high-powered hunting rifle in the car, was jailed under $100 bond. His court appearance is scheduled for Monday.

Findlay Couple's Son Left In Turkey Due To Mixup

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Aaron Odunkesener will be 1 year old Aug. 28. His mother hopes to have a party for him, "if we can just get somebody with enough authority, somebody high enough to help us," he reunited with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Sefik Odunkesener are back in their Findlay home after a visit to his family in Turkey.

But young Aaron had to be left behind, half a world away, because of what to his parents is a complex and incomprehensible situation over his citizenship and documents.

Odunkesener has lived in the United States three years and hopes to become an American citizen, but he made the trip under his Turkish passport. His wife's American passport was issued for both her and Aaron, who was born in Findlay.

But when the family arrived in Turkey, they were informed by government officials there that the boy would require a Turkish passport in order to leave the country.

Low Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The summary of Ohio weather conditions as reported by the National Weather Service:

Cloudy skies prevailed over most of the state during the night and just before daybreak temperatures were in the 60s at all the major reporting points. Showers and thundershowers were spreading eastward over western sections of the state.

A frontal system from northern Lake Huron southwestward to northern Illinois is moving very slowly southeastward. A southeasterly flow of moist and warm air will continue over Ohio today and thundershowers are expected to develop over most sections. High temperatures this afternoon should be in the 80s over the entire state.

The remainder of the week-end should continue warm and humid with still the threat of thundershowers again on Sunday. Tonight's lows will be mostly in the 60s. Highs Sunday afternoon are expected to reach the middle or upper 80s.

OHIO — Variable cloudiness and warm with a chance of showers or thundershowers today, tonight and Sunday. Highs today and Sunday in the 80s. Low tonight in the 60s and upper 50s.

Sales Tax Receipts Up During July

Sales tax collections during July in Pickaway County were $58,271.54 according to a report from the office of Gertrude Donahay, state treasurer.

This is an increase of $6,730.68 or 13.05 per cent over collections during July a year ago. Motor vehicle tax collections for July were down from $57,278.97 a year ago to $39,365.75 this year, a drop of 31.27 per cent.

swallow up the few Vietnamese.

There's also a major security problem. There have been more sapper attacks in the past three months than at any previous time in the war.

The fate of Cam Ranh Bay seems more likely to be that experienced by the An Khe Valley base camp of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division. That installation was torn down to its foundations by corrupt Vietnamese officers and entrepreneurs. The Dong Ba Tin helicopter base outside Cam Ranh has been partially razed in similar style.

Departure of the Americans has diminished hopes of making Cam Ranh an industrial region for private enterprise. The Vietnamese have always regarded the climate here as insufferable.

The few Americans left roam the peninsula like the last survivors of a doomed civilization, smiling at signs on empty roads that read, "Go slow, congested area." The shifting sands are already covering some of the back highways. The approaching monsoon with its torrential rain is expected to bring quick ruin. Cam Ranh seems headed on the same road to oblivion taken by such World War II bases as Guadalcanal and Saipan.

Bike Rider Falls Into Car's Path

Four-year-old Richard Hardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hardy Jr., Orient, suffered only a bruised calf when he fell from his bicycle into the path of a car 5 p.m. Friday.

Flota Roach, 29, Columbus, was passing the youth on Willow Drive when he lost his balance and fell towards the car.

Investigating Pickaway County Sheriff's deputies say the handlebars of the bicycle struck the right rear side of the car.

Deaths

MRS. RUTH CAERUTHERS
Mrs. Ruth Almeda Caruthers, 62, Garland, Texas, died Thursday in Garland, Texas.

Born April 28, 1910 in Circleville, she was a niece of William and Amelia Leist. She was twice married, first to Asa Elsea who died in 1936 and secondly to Paul Carruthers who died in 1964.
